About this Workshop

For over 13 years, the Advocacy Committee of the Law Society has been conducting basic trial advocacy skills workshops for practitioners as well as, more recently, for students of the Postgraduate Practice Law Course. Due to requests from more senior members of the profession and those who have already attended our basic trial advocacy skills workshops, the Committee in 1998 and 1999 conducted 2 successful Appellate Advocacy Workshops in conjunction with the Australian Advocacy Institute. In March 2006, at the request of the Sabah Law Association, the Committee conducted an Appellate Advocacy Workshop for members of the Sabah bar. Leveraging on the effectiveness of the tried-and-tested methodology adopted by the Australian Advocacy Institute and using materials specifically developed by senior lawyers from the Committee (including Mr. Sant Singh, Mr. Vinodh Coomaraswamy SC, Mr. N Sreenivasan and Mr. Andrew Ong), the Workshop was met with overwhelming response and excellent feedback from participants who shared that the training benefited them greatly as advocates.

Now, you too have the opportunity to benefit from the Appellate Advocacy Workshop conducted by the senior team of instructors that led the Sabah workshop – Mr. Chelva Rajah SC, Mr. Sant Singh, Mr. Philip Jeyaretnam SC, Mr. KS Rajah SC, Mr. Leslie Chew SC, Mr. Vinodh Coomaraswamy SC, Mr. N Sreenivasan and Mr. Andrew Ong.

The objective of this Workshop is to provide practitioners with a well-rounded grounding and hands-on training in the following types of appeals:

1. Appeals on Interlocutory Matters
2. Civil Appeals
3. Criminal Appeals

Throughout the course of the Workshop, there will be mini-lectures on topics such as:

- ❖ Principles of Appellate Advocacy
- ❖ Preparing for Appeals
- ❖ Case Theory in Civil & Criminal appeals
- ❖ Techniques in:
  - Drafting of skeletal arguments
  - Selecting & using of arguments
  - Organisation of materials
  - Responding to judicial interventions

About the Training Methodology

The Workshop will be conducted using a “learning-by-doing” approach.

During the Workshop, each participant will have between 8-12 minutes to present 3 arguments, at least 1 each for an Appellant and a Respondent, followed by a review on the substance of their performance and a private video review on style. In addition, participants are expected to prepare a short outline of submissions (not more than 2 pages).

To maximise the benefits of this Workshop, all participants are encouraged to carefully review the case materials which will be provided in advance, and to prepare for their assigned performances/roles.
